

iMap Family Fun With Nu Clay Sculpting Programme

For Family Pairs (1 Parent + 1 Child Above 5 Years Old)

“Art is not what you see, but what you make others to see.”
~Edgar Das~

Programme Synopsis

Parent-Child relationship has great impact on the lives of parents and their children. A good and harmonious relationship will enhance children’s performance in school, help parents work better professionally and lay the foundations for both to grow in their life journeys. A positive and cohesive family environment will nurture children to grow with good self-esteem and be happier.

Through a new discovery journey together in our iMap Family Fun with Nu Clay Sculpting Programme, parents and their child(ren) get to spend quality time together learning how to sculpt a dream home / garden with Nu Clay (a self-drying material, invented by our trainer and artist, Rico Ngim). This clay is versatile to be used for modelling, carving and casting. Older children / parents will create the human figurines with facial expressions while younger children can create the flowers in the garden or the house structure of their dream home.

Through sculpting, participants will learn how they can observe things around them that help them gain new insights which may be helpful in their work. The process of creating their artwork trains them to be more focused and patient. Exploration of variations allow them to take their imagination to greater heights and enhance their creativity.

Learning to sculpt together as a family promotes fun learning and help families to discover more about one another in a relaxing setting and improves bonding.

Participants get to bring home a tangible piece of personalised artwork that gives them a sense of achievement.
